AMALGAM I

Isabella K. Saavedra

NOVEMBER 14-DECEMBER 15

Isabella K. Saavedra is an artist and indigiqueer person (Pit River Madesi + Salvadorenx) based in Portland, Oregon. Originally from Oroville, CA, Saavedra attended Butte College before transferring to Southern Oregon University to earn a B.S. in Art. After working at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival as a props artisan, Saavedra moved to Portland and is now a studio assistant at Marie Watt Studio. Saavedra's practice is an amalgam of painting, sculpture, and textiles that investigates personal history, ancestry, daydream, and collective experiences. The selection of work on view is from two ongoing series: Sardine Cans and Remnants. These series utilize found and discarded materials and record the artist's "NOW-isms"
