Matt Richtel, author of this year's community Book in Common, is a novelist, cartoonist, and Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter for the New York Times and based in San Francisco. He writes about technology, its impact on society, and how it changes the way we work, play, and relate to each other. A Deadly Wandering is a true story in which a fatal, mysterious car wreck provides a landmark investigation into what technology is doing to our brains.
